
Couples needed for TV documentary

Posted by Balson - 2014/10/16 09:30

Hello,

I am a TV producer looking for couples in a relationship, where one partner is struggling with weight issues.

It is for a documentary for a British TV channel and will follow 3 or 4 couples for a few days in their daily lives, talking about your diet, any exercise and activities you enjoy, the feelings and situations you've been through and how you cope and support each other.

The programme is about how opposites attract and to show that although some couples may have different physical shapes and weights - they can still enjoy great relationships.

We hope it will help to educate people and raise awareness, as well as break stereotypes about body image, and mainly, show the strengths of each relationship.

If you are interested in learning more about this production, please get in contact as soon as possible.

Please contact me by emailing john.balson@barcroftmedia.com or by calling 0207 033 1030.

Many thanks,
John

=====