Hi everyone!!

I am a French student in sociology. For my PhD, I am comparing british with french women in terms of their food habits, weight-loss diets and the consequences that their weight can have on their body image, the way they dress and their relationships to others, their discriminations...

This questionnaire is fully anonymous and is only to be completed by women over the age of 18.

If you are interested, you can access this survey on:
<http://women.weight.free.fr/limesurvey/index.php?lang=en>

I would be extremely grateful if you would participate in my survey! The more answers I get, the better I can compare british and french women!

If you have any questions, please, do not hesitate to contact me on women.weight@free.fr

Thanks a lot in advance!!

Thank you for all people who can fill in my questionnaire!!

I can answer your questions if you want. I would like to fight against discriminations against overweight and obese women. That's why I do a comparison between France and England (and maybe Germany after)...It will be very interesting to know if English people are more or less discriminated than French women, and why?

I need your help...

Thank you a lot in advance!
